‘Manchester: A Science City’

Friday 6th July 2007, Science & Industry Museum, Liverpool Road, Castlefield, Manchester. M3 4FP.

Aims of the seminar:

- * to publicise excellent Research Council-funded research on Science Cities, emphasising the applications of this work for local government,
- * to provide a forum for practitioners in local government to discuss policy and research needs with researchers, and explore practical applications of existing research,
- * to build bridges between different experiences and expertise.

This LARCI seminar offers a unique information-gathering and networking opportunity. It will provide possibilities for those researching fundamental questions, and those addressing questions of policy and practice, to learn from each others' experiences and expertise.

Target audience:

- researchers and policy makers within local government,
- academics and Research Council staff
- representatives of other organisations interested in promoting best-practice in local government.

Speakers will:

- present their work within the context of local authority policy and delivery needs,
- emphasise the practical implications for local government
- encourage feedback and debate.

About LARCI: This seminar is being organised by LARCI, the Local Authority Research Council Initiative. LARCI aims to bring the Research Councils and local authorities into closer partnership, and help inform policy through research. This initiative is supported by the following Research Councils: Arts and Humanities Research Council (AHRC), Biotechnology and Biological Sciences Research Council (BBSRC), Engineering and Physical Sciences Research Council (EPSRC), Economic and Social Research Council (ESRC), Medical Research Council (MRC), Natural Environment Research Council (NERC), and a range of local authority bodies: Department for Communities and Local Government (CLG), Improvement and Development Agency (IDeA), Local Authority Research and Intelligence Association (LARIA), Local Government Association (LGA).

You can find out more about LARCI, and access details of seminars and the LARCI Newsletter, through our website: www.larci.org.uk/.
